STOCKS MERCURIAL

Every Rumor from Washington Causes Quick Fluctuations.

Trading in Industrials Consequently Largely Restricted - Indianapolis Markets All Discouraging.

At New York, yesterday, money on call was easy at 1 per cent.

Prime mercantile paper, 3754 per cent. Sterling exchange was strong, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.884@ 4.881/2 for demand and $4.861/4@4.861/2 for sixty days; posted rates, $4.87@4.89; commercial bills, $4.85@4.8514.

Silver certificates, 621/2@631/2c. Bar silver closed at 621/2c per ounce. At London there was a sharp slump, the price dropping to Total sales of stocks amounted to 100,000 shares. The market was dull again, the volume of business being even lighter than on Tuesday, but as the trading was more generally distributed there was an appearance of greater activity. The speculation was, however, decidedly stronger in tone, and there was at times a very healthy movement, full of comfort to that part of the speculative fraternity which locks forward to an supreciation in values. As the tariff bill is the leading factor of the situation, everything which tends to create a sentiment on one side or the other of that question has influence on the market. The election in Pennsylvania yesterday was looked on in the light of an instruction to the national lawmakers to modify their views on the tariff, and hence was made use of by the bulls to move up prices. Washington advices were scant as to new developments, and the dealings in the industrials were consequently restricted, neither side of the market caring to operate heavily on dead reckoning. There was a fairly good buying of Sugar, which gained % on the day, having at one time made an advance of %, subsequently losing ft all, and finally rallying %. Distilling was very firmly held, the buying being mainly for the Western account. A prominent bear operator is credited with selling the stock short, and thus counteracting the influences of the purchasing movement, the result being that the shares advanced only the smallest fraction. prominent Gas was also the dealings; buying on Chicago sent it orders it up from cent. in the when the support was withdrawn the short interest took an inning and broke the shares 14 per cent., the closing sales being at a rally of only 1/8. A report was circulated in the morning that the General Electric Company was on the high road to prosperity and to a dividend in the common stock, and purchases induced thereby caused an advance of 11/2 per cent. An official statement that there was nothing abnormal in the business of the company to cause an appreciation in the stock led to the realizations of the profits of the improvement, and this caused a reaction of 1/6. In the railway list St. Paul and Burlington did the bulk of the business. St. Paul was bought by London and the West, and cable advices were to the exect that the foreign shareholders received assurances that the the current quarter would be duly paid. An advance of was all that could be reached, and of this had been lost at the close. A scarcity of Burlington shares in the loan market led the shorts to cover and caused an advance of %, but the later dealings were in a sell ing market and the closing price was 1/2 off from the best. Western Union fluctuated within a limit of 1/2 per cent., gaining % on the day. In the rest of the list the transactions were triffing and the changes in prices very slight except that Wisconsin Central rose 3 per cent, and Cordage preferred and New York, Chicago & St. Louis each 1 per cent., and Toledo & Ohio Central declined 2 per cent. The market closed generally firm. The probability of gold shipments was again brought forward by reason of a slight advance in sterling exchange, but the margin make such ventures not very alluring. The bond market was very strong all day and nearly every issue traded in recorded an improvement, the most prominent of which are Wisconsin Central firsts, 2%: Oregon Railway and Navigation fives, 21/2; Oregon Railway and Navigation trust fives, 2. Government bonds were firm and State The following table, prepared by James

Exchange on New York, 75c premium. LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE. Trade Shows Some Improvement, with Few Changes in Values.

Trade yesterday on the wholesale streets was better than on either Monday or Tuesday, while in prices a more steady tone was shown. Eggs, on increasing receipts, are weaker, and shippers yesterday would pay but 14 cents. Receipts of butter are larger, but much of it is a poor article. The last few days the receipts of Irish potatoes have been large, and prices carry an easy tone, although not quotably lower. Little demand for sweet potatoes, and the stock is poor and sells slow. There is a little more activity to the hide market. Some changes will be noticed in the hide and tallow markets. Provisions are steady and selling well. The Journal will hereafter give the quotations of two leading packing houses, and when they differ the quotations of each will be given. With the dry-goods houses it is quiet times.

Let the Light Be Put Out. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal:

I see by to-day's Journal that Secretary Carlisle has asked Congress for authority to put out the light which the statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World" holds aloft in New York harbor. When we view the ruin that has been wrought by eleven months of Democratic rule, the blighting effect of their tariff policy, their cruel assaults on the old soldiers through the pension department, the repeal of the federal election law at the behest of those who are in power as the result of repeated outrages on the ballot, witness the hauling down of the American flag at Honolulu and the determined efforts of Cleveland and his "paramounts" to crush the life out of a young republic and restore a vicious and ignorant monarch, who can say that Carlisle in his request has not evidenced a high sense of the "eternal fitness of things?" Congress should at once grant his request, for in that act Carlisle can symbolize the recent achievements of his party in a manner most fitting.

Odds and Ends. To make old fashioned onion syrup mince an onion fine, then add a tablespoonful of cider vinegar and half a cup of molasses which is boiling hot. This will be found excellent for hoarseness and sore throat. It should stand awhile before using.

To keep the eyes bright and clear all sorts of things are necessary. A good digestion and plenty of sleep rank first. When the eyes are tired bathing them in very hot water is excellent. IT WAS NIP AND TUCK

First Chicago Bears Were on Top, Then the Bulls Had the Pits.

Wheat, However, Closed at a Gain Over Tuesday, and the Other Markets Strongly Sympathized.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.-There was a big trade in wheat to-day, fluctuations covering a 1%c range. At the close May was unchanged. Free selling and heavy covering by shorts sent the prices up and down the scale several times during the session. Better cables and light receipts aided in the advances, and disappointing second cables and sales by elevator men and Pardridge were bearish influences. May corn closed 1/8c lower, May oats unchanged and provisions finished slightly higher for May pork and unchanged for May lard and ribs.

May wheat, which closed at 60%c, was offered at from 60c down to 59%c as soon as the market opened to-day, and for about twenty minutes the tendency was toward a further decline. In free offerings it sold as low as 59%c before the decline was arrested, but it revived again at that point and during the next half hour gave indubitable evidence of bull spirits. By 10:15 o'clock the price was up to 60%c, a recovery of 1%c in that time from the early drop. The receipts were lighter than for a long time. Liverpool was quoted firmer at 1/2d advance and with improved demand. The weather in England was called very cold. At London cargoes were quoted firmer and held for more money. Pardridge's brokers filled the crowd up with short wheat as soon as the market opened on orders from him, it was claimed, and this proved a bear influence. The last named advance reached 60%c before it culminated. On this business was lively and of considerable volume. New York wired that second cables were disappointing, more especially from French sources, and that foreigners were sellers of wheat in New York. That city sent a great many selling orders here before the advance started. The Atlantic clearances were fairly bullish to account for the great strength which followed the early weakness. The true inwardness of the heavy buying was traceable, it was thought, more to the prudential purchases of some heavy local shorts than to any important purchases for long account. John Cudahy, who was said to have been by far the heaviest buyer yesterday, was reported to buying wheat to-day. Other shorts with more moderate lines also took early advantage to take in their profits. Before the latternamed boom subsided, 60%c was paid for a little May wheat. Elevator men were credited with selling a good deal of July wheat on the bulge by reducing the pre-mium between it and May from 2c to about 1%c. Bradstreet's report of the visible supply, as first received, gave a decrease of only 50,000 bushels in the world's visible supply for the week. That was afterwards corrected to a degree with the details of the statement to a decrease of 1,007,000 bushels. The price of May wheat dropped to 59%c on the first report and reacted to 60%c on correction. There was a rumor about five minutes from the close that the French Chambers had rejected the bill to add the duty on wheat, on which the orice here rose to 60%c, but it closed at 10@60%c, with May midway between the top and bottom figures of the day. Corn was moderately active, with a fair volume of business early, the market ruling rather quiet late in the session. A comparatively steady feeling prevailed. The pening was firm at yesterday's closing orices, and after easing off 14c, rallied 149 %c, declined %c and ruled firm. The market followed wheat to a great extent, but at the top prices a good deal of July was put on the market, which caused prices to from the day's top figures.

recede to nearly inside figures, the re-covery leaving May at the close but %c In cats there was a steady tone and prices moved within 4c range and closed about the same as yesterday. The offerings were light and not a great many were wanted. The strength came largely from the advance of 4c in cash lots. May closed at the top figures of the day. With the receipts of live hogs at the yards less than estimated and higher prices, provisions opened strong at a slight advance, but declined to a moderate extent on the temporary weakness in wheat, When that cereal raffled the market responded in sympathy, scoring a fair advance. The volume of trading was light and the strength was contributed to by the scarcity of offerings, with the transactions confined to the local operators. The price luctuated more or less with the up and down movement in wheat, but a firm undertone was apparent, independently of that cereal, on the support accorded to the market by the local operators. The unloading of a block of May lard caused a temporary reaction in that future. At the close pork ruled strong, while lard and ribs were steady. Compared with last night May pork is 71/2c higher; May lard unchanged, and May ribs unchanged. Estimated receipts for to-morrow are: Wheat, 43 cars; corn, 260 cars; oats, 110

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 21.-Wheat to-day was unsteady and very irregular. The open ing was %c lower than the closing yesterday and a further decline of 1/4c followed. After that break buyers came in to even up trades and the market advanced %c. Orders from outside to buy and sell May or July were smaller than yesterday, the bulk of the trading being among local operators to-day. Receipts were 84 cars and shipments 69 cars, which, of course, leaves very little over to supply the increased amount needed for local milling, to be followed naturally by a heavy decline in local stocks this week. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.-The interruption of a national holiday is against business, this week, decreasing the volume of transactions. Although prices have not varied to any material extent there is certainly no improvement in any of the staple lines. Mail orders are keeping up pretty well and show some improvements in the amount of goods called for. Recent reductions in common staples lead to considerable activity with the market firm on the new level of prices. Print cloths on the basis of 2%c, rule moderately active. Prints and printed fabrics, ginghams and woven wash goods, and the lighter colors of dress goods about hold their own as to price, with, however, diminished business. The jobbing trade is but moderately active without change in prices. The feeling in the dry goods district is quite as hopeful as it has been with the popular expectation fixed for a moderate steady business in the near future.

A hotbed is not necessary if one is convenient to a city where there are large seed stores, if plants are required for a small garden, as early varieties are kept in stock, but on the farm, if large crops of early cab bage, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, peppers and other crops, which require protection for awhile, in order to secure early plants, are grown, a hotbed will be valuable. The cost of a hotbed is but very little, considering its advantages, and, once made, it requires but slight repairing each year. With the hotbed should be constructed a few cold frames. The difference is that the hotbed requires glass, while the cold frame, which serves for large plants (transplanted from the hotbed later in the season), may be covered with boards only, especially if intended for such hardy plants as early cabbage or lettuce. The frame may be sixteen inches high at the rear, and fourteen inches in front, from the level of the ground, and covered with sash of any desired size. The boards may be simply nailed together at the corners, fastened to 2-by-3-inch scantling, Wheat—No. 2 red and white, 53c; May, 60%c; July, 62c. Corn—No. 2, 36%c. according to the kinds of plants to be grown. The height at the front, however, depends on the width of the bed. Fresh horse manure, free from litter, is generally used. It is the fermentation of the manure which creates the heat. If the manure is too loose it may create heat more rapidly than desired. It is better to mix the manure in a pile, allow it to heat some, and then turn it over and well mix it again before using it in the hotbed. Having trampled the manure firmly, now cover it with rich dirt, to which has been added one-fourth its bulk of fine, weli-rotted manure. There should be no lumps, stones or pebbles in the hotbed. If necessary, sift the dirt. The thickness of the dirt should be about six inches. As there will then be about a foot of space between the dirt and the sash (the hotbed being twenty-four inches at the rear), ample air space will thus be provided. If the manure does not heat up quickly and is too slow sprinkle the bed well with hot water, first adding a small quantity of air-slacked lime to the water. If too much heat is generated use cold water alone. When the heat reaches about 60 degrees plant the seeds, in rows, but more warmth will be required for the young plants later on. Of course the frame should be well banked up with dirt to prevent the effects of the frost. The object should be to maintain as even temperature as possible. On clear, warm days the sash may be slightly raised in order to admit air during the middle of the day, but this will depend on many circumstances. The better plan is to hang a thermometer in the hotbed and to visit it frequently. As the heat from the manure decreases the weather will become warmer. Gradually accustom the plants to the temperature of the outside atmosphere as much as possible, and transplant to the cold frame such as may be suitable for that purpose. Some sort of covering should be used over the sash at night, such as an old carpet, with a few loose boards over the carpet. The temperature of the atmosphere must be the guide in management, as the plants must not be kept too warm or become liable to being chilled. Two New Parlor Games. New York Commercial Advertiser.

The writers then change places and papers are passed round once more, so that there may be fresh reviewers for each paper. Finally the papers are read out loud.
